

Presentation: Data Security – How to Avoid Being a Victim of Digital Fraud

Learning Objectives: The goal for this session is to educate you on what fraudulent digital threats are out there and how to avoid compromising your governmental entities data.

Field of Study: IT and Fraud

Prerequisites: Familiar with using social media and email recommended, but not required.

Program Level: Intermediate

Delivery Method: Live webinar

Any Advanced Preparation: None

Program Description: In the digital world that we live in today, offices have become much more than the brick and mortar buildings that have been established. Especially with the rapid changes that were forced upon all of us during the pandemic. Staff were shifting over to working remotely causing businesses to become more digitally connected. With these changes and the increasing need to stay connected digitally, have you considered the potential digital fraudulent schemes that are out there? If not, you are not alone. If you have, you are already ahead of the curve. However, regardless of where you are at, the goal of this session is to educate you on what digital threats are out there and how to avoid compromising your governmental entities data.

Continuing Professional Education Credit: To receive CPE credit for the event, you must register for the Seminar prior to the date of the Seminar and login no later than the scheduled start time for the session for which CPE is sought. You must also answer three quarters of the polling questions that will be asked throughout the presentation.
